

Grigsby Grain Partnership

Production Ag Summer Internship

Grigsby Grain Partnership, a family-owned grain farm in west-central Illinois, is seeking motivated and enthusiastic individuals majoring in Agricultural Business or Crop/Soil Sciences for a Production Ag Summer Internship for summer 2017. This full-time internship would run from mid May-mid August and be located in Tallula, IL.

Our Operation...

Grigsby Grain Partnership is located about twenty-five miles northwest of Springfield, IL. The property borders the Jim Edgar Panther Creek State Fish and Wildlife Area and the farm encompasses about twenty square miles, 95% of which are contiguous! Grigsby Grain strives to be a model farming operation by utilizing industry-leading equipment, precision guidance, yield mapping, and variable rate technology. This technology allows for the most efficient placement of inputs and seed. The farming practices employed at the Grigsby reflect the long-term commitment to progressive and sustainable agriculture.

Internship Description...

Grigsby Grain Partnership's Summer Internship program offers a solid building block to a future career in production agriculture with valuable experience, paid housing, and an hourly wage. Interns will be working closely with the Assistant Farm Manager in developing a season long crop management monitoring plan. This experience will provide hands-on agronomic training in identifying weekly plant growth, weeds, diseases, insects, and nutrient deficiencies. Data entry will be required in order to document weekly growth so individuals with attention to detail are a must. As the internship progresses, other responsibilities and job-shadowing opportunities will be available within the grain, land improvement, and outdoor recreational enterprises. Grigsby Grain is committed to providing valuable real-world work experience, which could be an opportunity for other positions with Grigsby Grain Partnership.
